CULTURAL HERITAGE STUDIES

BACHELOR'S DEGREE

The Bachelor's Degree Programme is aimed at providing students with basic knowledge of cultural heritage and offering quality training in specialized methods, focusing especially on archaeological, historical, and art heritage.

The programme includes basic training, with courses in History, Archaeology, Art History, Archival Studies, Philology, and Literature. In addition, students acquire knowledge of the legislative and management aspects concerning cultural heritage.

The programme is further supplemented by technical and scientific courses designed to improve the students' knowledge and skills in the domain of cultural heritage management.

National and international apprenticeship and internship plans are part of the Programme. These plans lay the foundations for the acquisition of technical skills required for on-field work. In archaeology, these skills may be applied during excavation campaigns, topographical surveys, the filing of archaeological finds and their preparation for exhibition in museums, educational initiatives. In the domains of history and the arts, these skills play an essential role in inventory activities, the cataloguing of artworks, participation in the organisation of exhibition events, and also provide support to the design, implementation, and management of activities taking place in museums, superintendent's offices, art galleries, archives, and libraries.
