Application forms will be assessed by a selection committee appointed by the Director General, and composed of a minimum of 6 and a maximum of 9 members, representative of all ERC research domains.

For the evaluation of applicants, the committee can allocate a maximum of 100 points for each candidate, of which 35 are allocated for the qualifications of the scientific-professional curriculum, 25 for the research proposal, and the remaining 40 for the interview. Within such limits, the committee proceeds first to divide the total points among specific criteria.

For the definition of the evaluation criteria the committee could consider the following qualifications:

- demonstrated commitment to make a difference and ability to work both independently and in a highly collaborative team environment;
- demonstrated ability to interact effectively with technical and scientific staff;
- demonstrated ingenuity in dealing with complex problems;
- demonstrated strength and efficiency in technical writing;
- excellent oral and written science communication, and interpersonal skills, and a strong work ethic;
- demonstrated productivity and independent thinking;
- demonstrated commitment to a career in research.

Evaluation criteria for research proposals could be the following:

- timeliness and relevance of the research project;
- originality and feasibility of the proposal, inter/multidisciplinary aspects, innovative aspects and adequacy of the state of the art.

The evaluation of qualifications and research proposal precedes the interviews and the results will be made known to the applicants by publication on our website via this link.

The date and place of the interviews will be communicated to the applicants at least 10 days in advance, by publication on the website mentioned above with reference to the subject concerned.

Applicants who earn more than 30 points in the qualifications and research proposal evaluation are admitted to the interview.

The interview aims to assess the contents of the proposed research and the applicant's scientific productivity as well as skills, attitudes, and competences. The committee can score from 0 to 40 and the interview is considered passed if the applicant earns at least 21 out of 40 available points. For applicants living outside Italy, we aim to hold a virtual admission interview following established standards and procedures in order to verify the identity of individuals. The person (applicant) must provide original documents (not copies) to prove their identity.

In case two or more applicants have equal ranking scores, the tie for their ranking position will be resolved in favour of the applicant with the best research proposal evaluation score. If the best research proposal evaluation scores are also equal, then the fellowship will be awarded to the youngest candidate.

Art. 5 - CONCESSION

The Administration will notify the ten winners of the fellowship by registered mail using the address indicated in the application form or by certified email.

The winners will be required to send the requested declarations of acceptance to the Administration within ten days of the receipt of the notification and will subsequently be required to enter into a contract pursuant to art. 7 of the call for applications.
